John Brumby takes out Trustee of the Year Award

The Australian Institute of Superannuation Trustees (AIST) has announced John Brumby as Trustee of the Year at their Conference of Major Superannuation Funds (CMSF) today.

Mr Brumby, who is the chair of MTAA Super, joined the fund in 2011 after serving 25 years in state politics.

AIST CEO Tom Garcia congratulated Mr Brumby on his significant contribution to MTAA Super and the superannuation industry at large.

“John’s wide experience and expertise has contributed greatly to the success of MTAA Super and he has also played a key role in helping promote the benefits of not-for-profit superannuation,” Mr Garcia said.

Accepting the award at CMSF Mr Brumby said working in an industry that he is passionate about is like a dream come true.

“It’s great to contribute to an industry that is such an important retirement savings vehicle for Australians and is also an important vehicle for transforming long term savings into long term capital for Australia, jobs development and infrastructure,” said Mr Brumby.

The Trustee of the Year Award, which has been sponsored by Schroders for the past four years - recognises the crucial role that representative trustees play in Australia’s $1.8 trillion superannuation industry.
